Dear readers,

Thank goodness, it's holiday!!!
It was a busy time of me at school and with everything els that was going on.

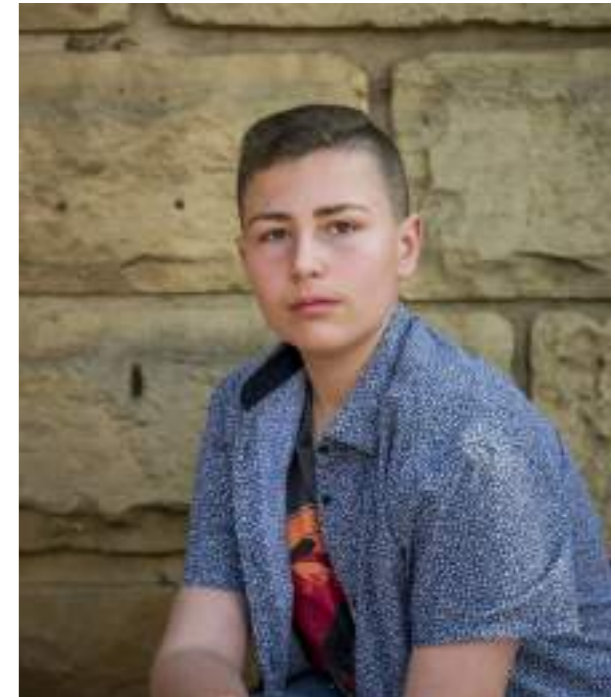

For know I can take a break and just relax.

I took part in the VaalTraingle Festival of performing arts and got a diploma for 90% I must say i'm proud of myself - hard work pays off.

If you want something you have to work for it...

I would like to take the time and thank my parents for alway been there for me support me with everything. Mom and Dad thank you I love you guys so much..

Woede is 'n baie lelike ding

Nadat Adam en Eva die tuin van Eden verlaat het, het hulle baie kinders gehad. Hulle eerste seun, Kain, het 'n boer geword en hulle tweede seun, Abel, het 'n herder geword.

Op 'n dag het Kain en Abel offerandes aan God gebring. Weet jy wat 'n offerande is? Dit is 'n spesiale soort geskenk. God was tevrede met Abel se offerande, maar nie met Kain s'n nie. Dit het Kain baie kwaad gemaak. God het Kain gewaarsku en gesê dat sy woede hom iets slegs kan laat doen. Maar Kain het nie geluister nie.

Kain het eerder vir Abel gesê: 'Kom saam met my veld toe.' Terwyl hulle alleen in die veld was, het Kain sy broer aangeval en hom doodgemaak. Wat sou God hieroor doen? God het Kain gestraf deur hom ver van sy gesin af weg te stuur. Kain sou nooit weer toegelaat word om terug te kom nie.

Wat kan ons hieruit leer? Ons word dalk kwaad as dinge nie uitwerk soos ons dink dit moet uitwerk nie. As ons al hoe kwater word—of as ander ons waarsku omdat hulle sien dat ons kwaad is—moet ons ons gevoelens dadelik verander en onder beheer kry voordat dit ons beheer.

Omdat Abel lief was vir Jehovah en gedoen het wat reg is, sal God hom altyd onthou. God sal Abel weer laat lewe wanneer Hy die aarde in 'n paradys verander.

Versie vir vandag:

Matteus 5:24:

Maak eers vrede met jou broer en kom dan terug en bring jou offer.

Facts about a mice

12 fascinating facts about mice you need to know

Mice can squeeze through the tiniest of gaps! Yes, you read that right! ...

Mice are like Daredevil. ...

Mice don't like the cold. ...

Mice have weak eyesight. ...

Mice teeth never stop growing. ...

Mice have supersonic hearing. ...

Mice are amazing at high jump. ...

Mice are fantastic climbers.

What are mice facts for kids?

Mouse Facts for Kids -

A female mouse can give birth to 150 mice in a year! Even if they can live in any conditions, mice usually dig burrows underground to hide from predators. They are omnivores, which means they eat both plants and meat - usually whatever they can find! Although they are similar, mice and rats are not the same animals.

1

What does a mouse eat?

Mice are opportunistic omnivores and will eat both plant and animal-based food. Wild mice eat a wide variety of seeds, grains and other plant material, as well as invertebrates, small vertebrates and carrion. A good-quality, balanced diet will help prevent nutrition-related problems in your mice.

What do mice do all night?

Mice Are Active At Night

Mice go out of their nests at night, when humans are in bed and asleep. They forage for food, they play with each other, and do most of their damage after daylight. Mice's natural predators like cats, owls, and foxes know this, so they too stalk at night.

How long do mice sleep?

About 12 hours a day

Mice and humans both cycle through two main types of sleep: non-REM and REM sleep. Unlike humans, mice snooze for about 12 hours a day, and their sleep is condensed into cycles of several minutes to an hour long.

Are mice scared of human?

Rats and mice have instinctive qualities that make them avoid predators. A human to them is nothing more than a large predator. If you encounter a mouse, it's most likely involved in its food search activities. Mice don't want to confront you.

Can mice see in the dark?

Mice are not completely blind, but they have trouble seeing objects clearly. This means that mice cannot see well in the dark or in the light. However, they do have other ways to find their way around a room. For one, instead of using their eyes, mice rely on their whiskers to figure out their surroundings.

Can mice sense your fear?

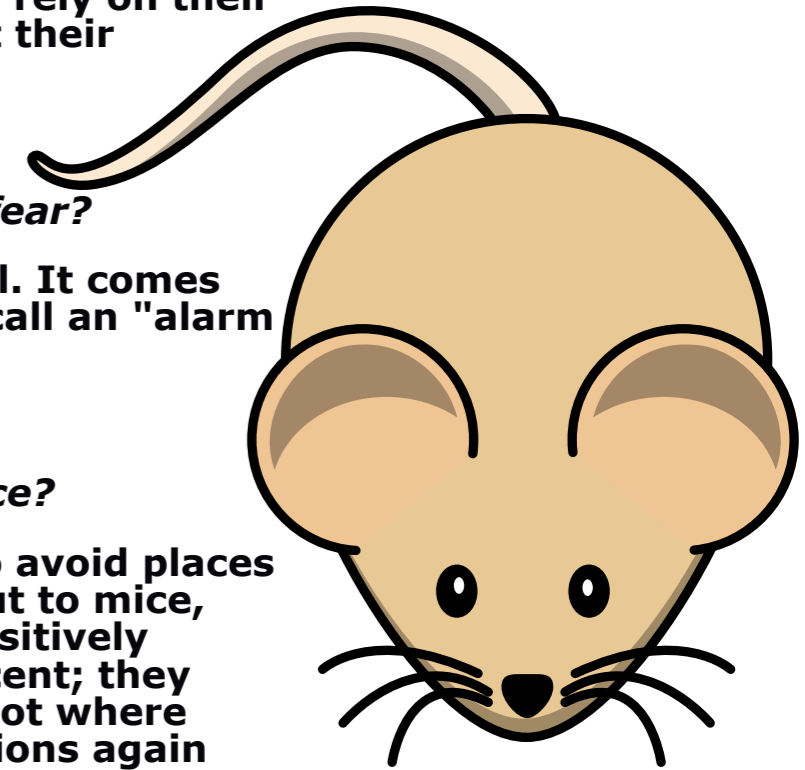

Fear has its own smell. It comes from what scientists call an "alarm pheromone."

Does urine attract mice?

Human beings tend to avoid places that smell of urine. But to mice, there is something positively addictive about the scent; they like to go back to a spot where they found the excretions again and again.

How do I scare mice out of my room?

Mice don't like the smell of garlic, onions, cayenne pepper, cloves, ammonia and alcohol. If you don't want to be driven out your home by unpleasant smells either, peppermint is another scent that repels mice.

How do I make my life feel like a holiday?

How to Make Your Life Feel More Like a Vacation | by Holistic ...

To make your whole life feel more like a vacation:

Be more diligent with your time off (daily, weekly, monthly).

Spend more time outdoors — in the sun, fresh air, and nature.

Spend less time in the digital world and more in the physical.

Prioritize quality time with your closest friends, family, or partner.
